Annual Report 2005-2006

Executive Summary January 2007

Cooperative Education and Career Services experienced another productive, eventful year. I am pleased to share with you the significant highlights, employment outcome data and all of the numerous activities the dedicated, energetic staff was involved in. We recognize the important role we play in the recruitment, retention and post-graduate success of our students. The wide range of services we provide are designed to support students at all stages of their career development, from freshmen to alumni. Our mission is to guide students as they enter their academic experience here at Pace with career information and exploratory activities, assist them with preparation and placement in co-op internships, as well as ready them for post-graduate success.

The 2005-2006 academic year signaled a new direction for this department under my leadership which commenced in January of 2006. One year later, I look back at the major accomplishments and initiatives our team has implemented.

With the financial support of employers such as Goldman Sachs, Target Corporation and many others who have provided financial sponsorships to our many events and career fairs, we have been able to continue to provide subscriptions for our technical resources so valuable to students in today’s information age. Online databases such as CareerSearch, the Vault Online Library, the eRecruiting database, an on-line recruitment site where we post all job and internship opportunities, and career fair software module would not be affordable without these contributions and fees collected from career fairs. In addition to technical resources, these contributions made possible a complete renovation of the New York City campus common office space and conference room, complete with painting and new furniture allowing for increased comfort for our students and visiting recruiters. The conference room in Gannett House, Pleasantville was also upgraded with new furniture and décor for a much more professional appearance.

A major innovation this year was the long anticipated career development course offered to students both on the NYC and Pleasantville campuses. INT197 “Exploring Majors and Careers” was a joint collaboration between our staff, the Center for Academic Excellence and Dyson College. The course was developed over several months and was offered as a pilot in spring of ‘06. 75 undecided freshmen and sophomores completed this one credit course designed to guide them through the process of choosing a major and career, goal setting and decision making. Ivy Aviles-Rivera, Assistant Director, Pleasantville and Carolyn Kleiman, Counselor, New York City were our first instructors to teach this important new course.

As always, our innovative team has added new events to meet specific needs of students; transfer workshops, an education career fair, practice interview days for education majors, Lunch & Learn series and National Career Development Day festivities.

The employment data contained in this report was obtained through individual contact, mail and email surveys conducted prior to graduation through six months following their degree completion. The following pages offer a window into our students’ successes and the department’s varied activities of the past academic year.
