Poets @ Pace is organized by Pace Poet-in-Residence Charles North and sponsored by the Office of the Provost. For more information, contact cnorth@pace.edu.

Monday, April 22
6:00 p.m.–8:00 p.m.
Multipurpose Room
NYC Campus

Free and open to the public!

Spring 2013
Reading

John Koethe is the author of nine books of poetry, most recently ROTC Kills, and a book of essays on poetics. He is the winner of the Lenore Marshal Prize, the Kingsley Tufts Award, and the Frank O’Hara Award. He has received fellowships from the Guggenheim Foundation, the NEA, and a Literature Award from the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

Ann Lauterbach has published eight books of poetry, most recently Or to Begin Again, a book of essays on art and poetics, and collaborations with visual artists. Lauterbach has received fellowships from the Guggenheim Foundation, Ingram Merrill, and The John D. and Catherine C. MacArthur Foundation.

Poets @ Pace is organized by Pace Poet-in-Residence Charles North and sponsored by the Office of the Provost. For more information, contact cnorth@pace.edu.