Table of Contents

Contributors viii
Preface xi

PART I

THEORY

1. A Radical Constructivist View of Meaning and the Problem of Communication Ernst von Glasersfeld

2. Meaning in Relationship
   Kenneth J. Gergen

PART II

PRACTICE

3. Innovations in Psychotherapy: Tracking the Narrative Construction of Change
   Miguel M. Gonçalves, Anita Santos, Marlene Matos, João Salgado, Inês Mendes, António Ribeiro, Carla Cunha, and Juliana Gonçalves

4. Reconstructing the Continuing Bond: A Constructivist Approach to Grief Therapy
   Robert A. Neimeyer

5. The Dynamic Features of Love: Changes in Self and Motivation
   Agnieszka Hermans-Konopka and Hubert J. M. Hermans

6. Asking and Answering Deconstruction Questions from within Counseling Dialogues
   Tom Strong and Lara Schultz
PART III
SOCIAL JUSTICE

7. Doing Justice: A Witnessing Stance in Therapeutic Work alongside Survivors of Torture and Political Violence
   Vikki Reynolds

8. Constructivist Mentoring as Social Justice
   Sara K. Bridges

9. Gazing at Objectification Theory through a Social Constructionist Lens
   Melanie S. Hill

10. The Integral Universe, Experiential Personal Construct Psychology, Transpersonal Reverence, and Transpersonal Responsibility
    Larry M. Leitner

11. Constructing and Deconstructing Social Justice Counseling
    Jonathan D. Raskin

PART IV
THEORY REVISITED

12. The Hierarchy of Epistemological Beliefs: All Ways of Knowing Are Not Created Equal
    Tabitha R. Holmes

13. Psychotherapist-as-Philosopher-of-Science
    Dušan Stojnov

14. The Status of the Individual in Pragmatism and Constructivism
    Trevor Butt
About the Editors 381
Appendix: About the Constructivist Psychology Network 383
Index of Proper Names 385
Subject Index 395