

Teaching for Global Competence in the 21st Century: Global Themes in the Curriculum*

Pace University School of Education Workshops for Teachers
Saturday, February 11, 2012
8:30 a.m.–12:00 p.m.

Presented by TeachUNICEF, the U.S. Fund for UNICEF's Education Department, this workshop is designed to familiarize teachers with pressing global issues, such as gender equity, water and sanitation, and child labor, and to provide teachers with resources and support for integrating these issues into their curriculum.

The workshop will explore:

- The meaning of global competency
- Best practices and challenges related to incorporating global themes into existing curriculum
- Globally-focused materials and plans that meet the needs of educators, students, and schools
- Common Core State Standards and National Content Standards
- Opportunities to engage students in local action that has a global impact

The Global Education Coalition will host a Resource Fair from 12:00 p.m.–1:00 p.m.

About TeachUNICEF: TeachUNICEF conducts workshops on global issues for educators and develops resources for the classroom, which are available for free on its website, www.teachunicef.org

Pace University
One Pace Plaza
Student Union Level B, Meeting Room A
New York, NY, 10038
(Enter on Spruce Street)

Workshop fee: $15 (to cover the cost of refreshments and technology access)

Space is limited.

To register online, log on to www.pace.edu/UNICEFworkshop.
For more information, contact Nancy Campoverde at ncampoverde@pace.edu or (212) 618-6957.

Attendance at the Friday evening, February 10, 2012 film screening, Building Global Competency: Gender and Equity Issues in Education, is recommended but not required for workshop participants (www.pace.edu/SOEmovies).

*Photo courtesy of <http://teachunicef.org/explore/media>

School of Education

TEACHunicef
www.teachunicef.org