Transportation

Inter-Campus Transportation – www.pace.edu/transportation (914) 923-2695

Pace runs its own bus service between all Pace campuses. There is a schedule included in your orientation packets, and is also accessible online.

Bee Line Bus – transportation.westchestergov.com/bee-line (914) 813-7777

The Bee Line bus offers transportation throughout Westchester County. See schedule and pick-up/drop-off locations online.

Metro-North Railroad (MNR) – www.mta.info

Metro-North offers an easy way to go to New York City. A round-trip fare to NYC is $17.50 (off-peak) from White Plains, or $20.50 (off-peak) from Pleasantville if you buy the ticket at the station before you board the train; buying a ticket on the train is much more expensive. All peak fares are higher – see the MNR web site for schedules and fare details. Both Pleasantville and White Plains are on the Harlem Line, east of the Hudson River. Train stations are located at:

- 400 Manville Rd., & 1 Wheeler Ave. (Memorial Plaza), Pleasantville
- 16 Ferris Ave., White Plains
- 87 East 42nd St. New York City

Taxi Services

Pleasantville Taxi (914) 610-8668

The cost should be no more than $5.00 per person from the Pleasantville train station to the Pleasantville campus. Taxis operate until 10pm.

White Plains – taxis are available at the White Plains train station for all trains at all hours.

MONEY MATTERS

New York is one of the most expensive cities in the world and money can disappear quickly! Here are some tips on managing your money in the U.S. and building credit.

Banking in the U.S.

There are many banking options in New York, and you should shop around before choosing a bank. Look at what services they offer, i.e. online banking, ATM locations, bank locations, and hours. Also pay special attention to any monthly fees that will be charged. Not all banks charge fees, and many have ways for you to avoid having to pay any fees.

To open an account, you will have to present photo identification, some personal data, a mailing address and money to deposit. Banks will request a Social Security Number for tax reporting purposes. If you do not have a SSN yet, you may be able to open a non-interest bearing account while you wait for the SSN to arrive.

Money-Wise Tips

- Keep track of your accounts. You will receive a monthly statement from your bank detailing your transactions – check it regularly.
- There may be a limit to the amount of money you can withdraw from an ATM at one time – check with your bank about any limits.
- An ATM service fee is usually charged if you use an ATM from a bank where you do not have an account.
- Pay all bills on time – late fees are charged for unpaid bills or bills that are not paid on time.

Financial Planning for your Stay in the U.S.

Creating a budget will help you track your expenses and ensure that your money lasts for as long as it needs to. Once you have settled, look at your expenses to create a budget; include expenses such as tuition, fees, rent, meals, health insurance, books, transportation, communications (i.e. cell phone), clothes, personal expenses, travel, and recreation.

Building Credit

As an international student, you may not currently have any credit in the U.S. This means that you may have to pay a large deposit on a cell phone plan or you may have lower maximums on credit cards. Here are a few ways you can build your credit in the U.S.:

- If you are living off-campus, have some of the utility bills (i.e. electric, gas, cable) listed in your name. Paying bills on time, and in full, builds credit.
- Rent payments where a lease is in your own name.

- A secured credit card payment history. Secured, collateralized, or pre-paid credit cards allow you to put down an amount of money up front and use the credit card. Paying the bills on time and in full will help build your credit.

Protecting Yourself Against Identity Theft

Identity theft is often talked about in the U.S. It is a crime that can seriously affect your credit and cause many problems. This section explains what identity theft is and how you can protect yourself.

What is identity theft?

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your name, Social Security Number, and/or other personal information to commit fraud or crimes. Some of the common ways that this information might be used are using your credit card to purchase items, opening new credit cards in your name, establishing phone service in your name, opening a bank account in your name, and not paying the bills or spending over the account limit.

If someone steals my identity, how am I affected?

When someone's identity is stolen it affects their credit report. Credit reports are used in the U.S. by credit card bureaus and banks that approve loans to determine whether you will be able to repay a loan if they grant you one. If your credit report shows that you did not pay your bills regularly, you may have many difficulties getting a loan or further credit.

How can I tell if I am a victim of identity theft?

You can tell if you have been a victim of identity theft by tracking your finances and your bills closely. Look at your monthly bank statements for charges or withdrawals that you did not make. If you are receiving credit cards for which you did not apply, if you stop receiving your bills in the mail, or if you begin receiving phone calls from debt collectors for merchandise or services you did not purchase, you may be a victim of identity theft. Each of these things may occur because of a simple mistake, but you should always follow up with the business to investigate.

How can I protect myself from identity theft?

Unless you initiate the contact with a person or company, never share the following information with anyone: credit card numbers, bank account numbers, Social Security Numbers or your mother's "maiden name." Carry only necessary information with you in your wallet and do not carry any passwords or PIN numbers. Notify credit card companies immediately if cards are lost. Keep extra checks, credit cards, and other documents in a secure place in your home, and tear up any receipts or anything else bearing personal information before throwing them away.

Social Security Number (SSN)

The Social Security Number (SSN) is a 9-digit number issued by the U.S. Social Security Administration to those individuals who have secured a paid job position in the United States. The SSN is required in order to be paid for any work you do in the U.S., whether it is on-campus employment or an off-campus internship (practical training). Though the SSN is only required in order to be paid by an employer, many other institutions in the U.S. ask for a SSN (i.e. banks, cell phone carriers, the Department of Motor Vehicles, etc.), and it is generally easier to obtain services from these institutions if you already have a SSN. You are only eligible to apply for a SSN if you have secured a job.

Though there are two Social Security Administration offices in Westchester County, we recommend you go to the office located in White Plains as they are most accustomed to issuing SSNs to Pace University students. The office locations and contact information are:

White Plains SSA Office

297 Knollwood Rd., Suite 4A

Telephone number (800) 772-1213

Office hours: Mon-Fri 8:45am-3:30pm

Location is ¼ mile south of Exit 4 off I-287, near the intersection of Route 119 and Knollwood Rd.

Free on-site parking is available

Bus routes: 1W, 5, 6, 13, 14, 15

Peekskill SSA Office

One Park Place, 3rd Floor

Telephone number (800) 722-1213

Office hours: Mon-Fri 9am-3:30pm

Applying for a SSN

When you go to apply for your SSN you will fill out an application form when you arrive. You will then present the application and the following original documents for review:

- Valid passport
- F-1 visa
- Print out of your electronic I-94 arrival record
 - *Your electronic arrival record can be found at <https://i94.cbp.dhs.gov/I94/request.html>
 - Once you are able to access your I-94 record on the CBP website you should review all the information and ensure that it is correct. Your record should indicate the day you entered the U.S., the class of entry, visa type and the duration of stay, which should be annotated as “D/S” (duration of status/studies)
- Form I-20
- Letter from prospective employer (off-campus internship) or from Pace University Human Resources department (on-campus employment)
- If you have been approved for OPT, you may present the EAD card in lieu of a letter from an employer
- Letter from International Students & Scholars

It takes approximately 2-3 weeks for the Social Security Administration to issue your SSN and card; however, it sometimes takes much longer. The SSA must verify your student status with the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS) before issuing you a number. This process can take from 10 days to 12 weeks to complete. Once you have a SSN, you will use the same number throughout your stay in the U.S.

Health Insurance

All full time undergraduate and graduate international students must have health insurance. Students will automatically be enrolled in the University's accident/sickness plan when they register. You may waive the school's insurance if you provide proof of comparable coverage.

To review documentation related to the University's insurance plan and to access the waiver go to:
<http://www.pace.edu/health-insurance/international-students>

The deadline to submit a health insurance waiver for the Spring 2017 semester is February 24, 2017.

International Student Employment

On-Campus Employment

As an F-1 student you may apply for on-campus employment, provided that you are authorized by the USCIS to attend Pace University and you are maintaining full-time status. You can begin working on campus immediately (as soon as the semester begins). You will need a Social Security Number in order to be paid, so be sure to start that process as soon as you get a job offer from the Human Resources department.

What is considered on-campus employment?

On-campus employment means that you will be working on Pace University premises (perhaps in the library or your academic department). It also includes working for a commercial firm that provides direct services to Pace University students (such as cafeteria food services or the University bookstore).

How many hours can I work?

You may work up to 20 hours per week while school is in session. You may be eligible for full time employment during vacation periods and holidays.

How do I find out about jobs on campus?

The Human Resources department maintains records of available on-campus job opportunities. You can review on-line listings at <http://www.pace.edu/human-resources/employment-pace/student-employment-applying-on-campus-jobs>, and you may apply on-line.

Off-Campus Employment

The Department of Homeland Security offers F-1 students the opportunity to gain practical experience working off-campus by obtaining authorization to participate in Curricular Practical Training (CPT). In order to participate in CPT, students must have completed two semesters studying in a degree program (semesters spent studying English are not included) and be maintaining valid F-1 status.

CPT allows you to work off-campus in a position related to your field of study while you are a student at Pace. Employment under CPT must also be considered “an integral part of an established curriculum.” CPT falls into one of three categories:

- 1) The training or internship is non-credit and is required of all students as part of their degree program.
- 2) The training is required for a particular course, but not for all students pursuing the degree. The training must be taken for course credit and the course objectives must be clearly defined.
- 3) The training is offered through the Pace University Cooperative Education (Co-Op) office, which is an integral part of the curriculum but not required for a particular course or of all students in a degree program. The majority of Pace international students obtain CPT authorization through the Co-Op office.

Please note that students may only work a total of 20 hours per week while school is in session. This includes both on- and off-campus employment. Students may work full-time during school vacation periods (winter and summer breaks).

For more information about CPT and a step-by-step checklist please visit <http://www.pace.edu/iss/eligibility-for-cpt>.

Optional Practical Training (OPT)

OPT authorization allows you to work in the U.S. for a total of 12 month upon graduation from Pace University in a position that is related to your major field of study. In order to receive OPT authorization an application must be submitted to and approved by USCIS. For post-completion OPT students must apply during the last semester of study.

For more information about OPT please visit <http://www.pace.edu/iss/planning-to-work/optional-practical-training-for-F1>.

Counseling Center

Counseling is a process to help people work out personal, academic, or vocational problems. The professional staff at the Counseling Center at Pace University is available to assist students, staff, and faculty in the resolution of these problems. Through this process, people often gain increased awareness, independence, and effectiveness in the pursuit of personal goals. These services are available free of charge to members of the Pace community. In addition to the information on these pages, please visit www.pace.edu/counseling-center for office hours and to obtain additional information.

Counseling services include:

- Personal counseling (individual and group)
- Educational and vocational counseling
- Alcohol and other drug assessments and counseling
- Resources and support services for students with disabilities
- Workshops and other programs
- Psychological assessments
- Referrals to community and other programs

Cultural Adjustment

When coming to a new country to study most students anticipate making some adjustments to differences in climate, food, culture and general lifestyle. Adjustment is a complicated and often difficult process for many. It does not happen overnight, in one week, in one month, or even in one year; it may take many months just to establish a reasonable degree of regularity in your life. The process of adjustment, though difficult, can also be an extremely productive and rewarding time. Many people attain new levels of self-awareness, personal growth, and a new understanding of and insight into their own country or home culture, in addition to knowledge of the new place, customs, and people.

The adjustment to different cultural norms is usually the hardest to make. Culture has been defined as the product of all learning that shapes thoughts, habits, beliefs, language, and social patterns of behavior and expectations which integrate individuals into groups. When moving from one country to another many things that you have taken for granted, and may not even be aware of, are either absent or different. Familiar social cues and expectations of how others will behave are no longer adequate. Others may have expectations of you that are quite different from those you have previously experienced.

The period of adjustment to a new culture is also sometimes referred to as "culture shock." The chart below shows the stages of adjustment, or culture shock, that one may expect to experience. Although the experience is not identical for each individual, there are four general stages in adjustment, each with a high and low point.

Application to Pace University

In Stage 1, many people experience general anxiety accompanied by lots of excitement. There are numerous details and arrangements to attend to. Individuals may feel ecstatically happy at certain times and totally overwhelmed at others. Many people find they have little time to sit and think during their first few weeks in a new place. They may find it tiring to speak and listen to English all day and experience "information overload." On the other hand, everything is so new and exciting...no one wants to miss a thing. Finding the energy for all this activity can be challenging.

Typically, between three to six weeks after arrival, the first rush of excitement has worn off and you enter Stage 2. Missing friends and family at home, feeling "out of sorts" or depressed, or experiencing changes in sleeping and eating patterns are common. It is not unusual to catch a cold or develop some other illness during this time.

In part, mind and body have begun to work overtime to accomplish simple things that ordinarily are taken for granted. If you feel this happening to you, it is very important to remind yourself that it is a normal and expected part of adjustment. Try modifying your standards of self-evaluation. Rest and retreat are effective cures for fatigue and exhaustion. Talking to others who are experiencing or have experienced the same thing is also helpful to understanding this phenomenon.

Some things you can do to make the adjustment process easier include:

- Listen and observe.
- Ask lots of questions about correct behavior, customs, phrases, and slang. People will appreciate your interest.
- Try not to evaluate or judge new things.
- Ask for help when you think you might need it, but do not demand things from others when frustrated.
- Do not be afraid to make mistakes; try to maintain your sense of humor. Anyone who has traveled would probably agree that a lot of cultural adjustment happens through trial and error. Even people who have been in a "new" environment for years are learning new things.
- Try to keep a regular eating and sleeping schedule. Include some form of regular exercise such as walking, swimming, or jogging in your activities. Establishing a daily routine is extremely helpful in new situations to combat the feeling of being overwhelmed. Exercise helps you to relax and maintain a sleep schedule.

At home you have an established "support network" of people with whom you share good and bad news, people who visit and care for you when you are ill or feeling down. That network may be composed of family, friends, neighbors, classmates, and/or teachers. Although your support network still exists the distance between you and these significant people makes communication difficult now, when you may need it the most.

It is important that you try to establish a "support network" or group of people with whom you feel comfortable here at Pace. You need people with whom you can discuss good and bad times and share companionship.

Developing a support network requires some work. Because of the distance from home, you most likely will need to seek out people who are not part of your family group. During International Student Orientation (ISO) and your first academic year at Pace, it is recommended to find other individuals who are from your home country or who may share your language or interests. You may also meet other students in clubs or organizations on campus, through religious groups, and in your classes and residence hall. In addition to the people mentioned above there are also professors, academic advisers, and the administrative staff.

In Stage 3 of the adjustment process, a greater sense of regularity becomes noticeable. It may take a full academic year or longer to reach this stage. During this time you may find that you more readily absorb information about your new home. You begin to accept the fact that there are good and bad things about both your home culture and this new culture; neither is "better" or "worse," they are just different.

A sense of anxiety may return in Stage 4, which generally occurs close to the end of your degree program. The need to disengage from the environment of Pace and prepare for the return home can be difficult and confusing. Many of the things to which you have become accustomed in the U.S. will take on a new meaning and significance at home. In addition, it may be difficult to anticipate what changes have happened at home while you were away. Those who will be continuing their schooling or moving on to jobs in the U.S. may undergo some of these same feelings when leaving the familiar Pace community.

Studying in the U.S. will permanently change you -- in more ways than you can imagine. You are likely to become "bicultural," meaning that you are fully adjusted to living in both your home country and the U.S. There will be some aspects of one country and culture that you prefer over the other, and vice versa. Your experience in the U.S. will undoubtedly further the process of becoming a true "global citizen."
