Assistant Professor, History
Department of Economics, History and Political Science
Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences at Pace University invites applications for an anticipated faculty position at the Assistant Professor level (tenure-track) to begin September 2016. The position is at the University’s campus in Pleasantville, NY, located approximately 30 miles north of New York City in Westchester County.

Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. or equivalent in history, with a concentration in modern Latin American history (subfield open). Candidates should be able to teach survey, honors, and upper-division courses in their field, as well as general history courses as required. We welcome applications from experienced and innovative teachers with a commitment to global and interdisciplinary approaches both in teaching at the undergraduate level and in scholarship. Faculty is expected to maintain an active research agenda that involves students and to engage in service to the department and the university.

Application materials should include a cover letter specifying teaching experience and interests as well as areas of research; CV; three letters of recommendation; a teaching statement of no more than 500 words; and representative student evaluations to HISPLVSearch2015@pace.edu by 26 January, 2016.

Pace University is an Equal Employment and Affirmative Action Employer. Women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.